

CRESTWOOD FLOORING

Sampling on Rustic and Heavy Character Product

Crestwood offers products in a variety of styles and colors. Many of our products have heavy rustic or reclaimed looks. These are handcrafted to achieve the look of classic floors worn by time and use and showcase the beauty of naturally distressed hardwood.

All products are selected for patina, character, and natural variations. We create truly unique floors crafted by hand so that no two pieces have the same look. Floors with rustic or reclaimed looks may include knots, mineral streaks, cracks, splits, splintering, and or other imperfections. These are not considered defects.

Sample boards provide a small representation of a wide ranging product. Installed floors may have greater variations in color, grain, or character that cannot be possibly represented in a single sample board. These wide variations are not considered defects.

As with all flooring products, samples that have been exposed to light for extended periods may appear different than newly installed flooring. We work hard to develop samples that best represent the final products. Crestwood has no liability for claims due to variation in color, grain, and character between sample boards and final installed product.
